Color Types – A Snapshot

Gold

- Your greatest strength is that you are effective at getting things done.
- The other colors are glad you're there. They will usually admit how much they depend upon you. You are usually working your fingers to the bone, and doing it without letting others know how much stress you're feeling, so much so that they may forget how much they need you.
- You love having the RIGHT answer to a problem. But you'll do best in relationships when you remember that others can assist you in solving problems, and you learn to value their viewpoints as well.

Green

- Your greatest strength is that you can take charge and lead when you need to do so.
- Greens lead with the power of the thinking mind. Greens love to solve problems, create new ideas, and analyze before making decisions. Greens love to be appreciated for their special abilities.
- Green personalities love being RIGHT, so much that there are times that they would rather be RIGHT than be loved. You must remember that your opinions are just that-opinions-not facts.

Orange

- Your greatest strength is that you help people have fun and try new things.
- Oranges are impulsive and bring excitement to the relationship. They bring energy, charisma, laughter, and creativity to life.
- You can act without thinking about the consequences. This can get you into trouble in relationships-even at work and sometimes with the law. Learn to think things through carefully.

Blue

- Your greatest strength is that you are gentle and understanding.
- Blues make a wonderful contribution to the relationship; Blues are enthusiastic, generous and inspiring. They love to nurture things, groups, people, and watch them grow.
- Your feelings can be so strong that you sometimes do things without thinking. Your heart can overrule your head, so be sure you make clear decisions about relationships.
