

Healthy Relationships, Healthy Marriages, Better Outcomes for Children!

Welcome to Wedded Bliss Foundation, a community based organization dedicated to helping families develop healthy relationships and healthy marriages to improve their lives, better the outcomes for children and create stronger communities. We accomplish this in many different ways. Our signature program is Black Marriage Day, the fourth Sunday in March every year. Join Wedded Bliss Foundation, Inc., as we organize churches, community groups, families and couples to celebrate marriage in the Black community, Sunday, March 22, 2009. Our theme next year: First Comes Love: Guiding Our Youth to Marriage. Order the 2009 Black Marriage Day How to Kit. Visit www.blackmarriage-day.com to see what happened this year.

Wedded Bliss Foundation has programs for singles, couples and teens using a series of curricula developed by Nisa Muhammad and Dr. Rozario Slack called Basic Training. It includes Basic Training for Couples, Basic Training for Singles, Basic Training for Men and Basic Training for Women. If you are interested in teaching a marriage education curriculum to the Black community consider Basic Training for Couples. The organization also provides professional training in how to use the curricula and technical assistance to groups and organizations interested in developing community healthy marriage initiatives that serve the Black community.

We're changing hearts and changing minds to reconsider marriage. We're helping families create better communities for themselves and their children. We're helping teens and singles develop healthy relationships. Wedded Bliss can be yours and we can show you how.
